

CISA eFAST, the motorized mortice exit device that offers more protection to people and activities

CISA launches eFAST, the new motorized mortice panic exit device that offers quick egress in every circumstance as well as top security in access control, thus transforming the exit door into a smart and efficient high-performing entry.

As Chiara Ciardetti, Product Platform Specialist, explains, “The new mortice version of CISA eFAST panic device was designed to enable security personnel to manage all environments requiring maximum protection in a simple and reliable way, since its motorization allows accurate external access control. The system is open and compatible with access credentials on the market, including smartphones and fingerprints. The motorized solution can replace its mechanical counterpart and may be connected to existing access control systems and used for many different applications owing to its versatility.”

Due to its technological and design features, CISA eFAST is the ideal motorized solution for fireproof panic doors in public and commercial buildings with large numbers of visitors and meets the need for a complete and certified advanced security system. The clean design is worth noting, since the only visible element remains the panic bar, whose curved and compact shape ensures the smooth frictionless movement of the door.

As a solution for contexts with a large public turnout and as part of the FAST range, eFAST mortice is treated with CISA PLUS, an antibacterial protective finish that is safe for humans and helps prevent the proliferation and spread of dangerous microorganisms and inhibits the growth of mold and bacteria.

CISA, a brand of Allegion, is one of Europe’s leading providers of security and access control systems.
